

Leiston and Sizewell's Wartime Memories

A community project as part of Leiston's commemorations to mark 80 years since the end of World War II.

Help preserve the past and honour those who served.

Would you like to tell us about a family member or a close friend who served in World War I or II? Did they make the ultimate sacrifice, or did they return home safely?

Were they in the Home Guard, a Reserved Occupation or the Women's Voluntary Services? Maybe about your own childhood memories of food rationing?

We would like to hear from you!

These collected stories and photographs will form a lasting record, either as a folder or a book, ensuring that future generations can learn from and honour the experiences of those who lived through the war. All residents are invited, even if your family didn't live here then or you have since moved away.

There is a form on the right for your contact details and consent, please include it with your finished contribution. These may be emailed to history@leistoninfo.com or left with Leiston Library or the Council Offices, Old Post Office Square. Please also email if you have any enquiries. Leaflets are also available at the Library.
